Proposed Rule Revision on General Supervision

On December 22, 2006 a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking announcing proposed changes to the Arizona Administrative Code at R4-24-303, Patient Care Management was published in the rulemaking Register – a publication of the Arizona Secretary of State. This Notice of Proposed Rulemaking contains the proposed rule language addressing requirements for, and restrictions to, general supervision of PTAs. This rulemaking was initiated in response to the changes to A.R.S. §32-2043, Supervision: patient care management which since September 21, 2006 allows a supervising physical therapist to make the determination on each day and for each patient whether a physical therapist assistant (under specific terms and conditions) may provide selected treatment interventions under the physical therapist's general supervision. These statutory changes have been posted on the Board's web-site (www.ptboard.state.az.us) since June 2006. The portions of the Arizona Revised Statutes and the portions of the Arizona Administrative Code (i.e. administrative rules) that comprise the physical therapy practice act are available for downloading and printing from this site.

An insert to this newsletter contains the pertinent language for the proposed revision to the rule, and the entire text of the proposed rule can also be found on the Popular Links section of the Board's web-site. Written comments will be accepted from licensees, certificate holders and the public by the Board office until at least 5:00 p.m. on Friday, January 26, 2007. Written comments may be mailed to Arizona Board of Physical Therapy, 1400 W. Washington Ste. 230, Phoenix AZ, 85007. On January 24, 2007 the Board will host an oral proceeding during which public comments to the proposed rule will be recorded. The location of this proceeding is 1400 W. Washington, #B-1 in Phoenix beginning at 9:00 a.m. The purpose of an oral proceeding is to document any statements made in support, or in criticism, of the proposed rule. While one or more members of the Arizona Board of Physical Therapy will preside over the oral proceeding, questions concerning the proposed rule cannot be addressed and legal advice concerning the possible interpretation or application of the rule cannot be addressed.

The projected time-line for finalization of proposed changes to R4-24-303, Patient care management is unknown at this time and will be determined to some degree on any revisions the Board may make in response to the written and oral comments received. The most current updates on the proposed rules will be found on the Board's web-site.

Questions about the rulemaking process or the proposed language can be directed to Heidi Herbst Paakkonen, Executive Director, at 602-542-3095.

Connecting the dots...

Documentation of physical therapy services is ubiquitous and is frequently a large component of every therapist's daily practice, though not always the most pleasant portion of the work day. The Arizona statute regarding documentation of physical therapy services is laid out in two places. The first is in Title 32-2043 (F) which says: A physical therapist is responsible for managing all aspects of the physical therapy care of each patient. A physical therapist must provide: 1) The initial evaluation and documentation for a patient. 2) Periodic reevaluation and documentation of a patient. 3) The documented discharge of a patient, including the response to therapeutic intervention at the time of discharge. Under Title 32-2044 (20) the statute indicates that failing to maintain adequate patient records is grounds for disciplinary action. Adequate patient records is defined in this section as being legible records that comply with board rules and that contain at a minimum an evaluation of objective findings, a diagnosis, the plan of care, the treatment record, a discharge summary and sufficient information to identify the patient.

As important as the various elements of a physical therapy note are, it is equally vital that sufficient information is contained in the written record to allow another therapist to read the note and reach a similar conclusion, certainly as it pertains to the diagnosis and outcome, if not the exact interventions selected. Such detail therefore describes the logic and thought processes of the therapist in his/her attempt to provide quality evidence-based care. In essence, each component of the documentation becomes a "dot" that is connected to the next one, culminating in a positive outcome for the patient.

As a physical therapist educator for the past 21 years, I have had a great deal of experience helping students to connect these "therapeutic dots". In the very early stages of their education, they often have little in the way of tests and measures at their disposal and rely upon guesswork to develop a diagnosis and treatment plan. As their skills mature, they begin to connect the dots between what they saw on the initial evaluation, the resulting diagnosis, and the most appropriate plan of care. Those of you who are fortunate enough to have physical therapy students in your clinic have undoubtedly seen this process of professional maturation. In my opinion, it is one of the most exciting things to witness.

Just as it is important for a student or novice therapist to connect these therapeutic dots, it is also important for the experienced therapist to continue to think in this logical manner. Unfortunately, my experience on the Arizona State Board of Physical Therapy has caused me to wonder whether this is happening. Far too often, the documentation that I am presented with lacks sufficient detail for me to determine whether the "dots" are recognized, let alone connected. Although it is certainly possible that they are unable to connect the dots, I choose to think instead that they simply fail to provide sufficient detail in their documentation for me to recognize their thought process. Whether this is the reason or not, it is not in the best interest of the patient and therefore unacceptable. Documentation of physical therapy services should not only set forth what was done, but it needs to establish why it was done. It also serves as the basis to judge whether the charges billed are warranted. Without such information, it is almost impossible to either build upon a successful outcome or make corrections to one that was less than ideal. I would certainly hope that all therapists are dedicated to the idea of improving the care provided to their patients. If so, proper and adequate documentation of the "what" and "why" is crucial to make this a reality.

Medical Records Protocol

Effective September 21, 2006, a new Arizona statute entitled A.R.S. §32-3211 Medical Records; Protocol; Unprofessional Conduct; Corrective action; Exemptions stipulates that all licensed health care professionals, including physical therapists, are subject to certain requirements concerning the establishment of written protocols for the secure storage, transfer and access of the medical records of the health professional's patients. Failure to comply with the requirements of the statute can result in a finding of unprofessional conduct and a disciplinary order issued by the Board. Arizona licensed physical therapists must indicate compliance with the requirements of the new statute on their application for re-licensure beginning in 2008. Some licensees will be exempt from the provisions of the statute by virtue of the fact that they are employed by a health care institution as defined elsewhere in Arizona law (A.R.S. §36-401) that is responsible for the maintenance of the medical records. Following is the language from the new statute:

32-3211. Medical records; protocol; unprofessional conduct; corrective action; exemptions

A. A health professional must prepare a written protocol for the secure storage, transfer and access of the medical records of the health professional's patients. At a minimum the protocol must specify:

1. If the health professional terminates or sells the health professional's practice and the patient's medical records will not remain in the same physical location, the procedure by which the health professional shall notify each patient in a timely manner before the health professional terminates or sells the health professional's practice in order to inform the patient regarding the future location of the patient's medical records and how the patient can access those records.
2. The procedure by which the health professional may dispose of unclaimed medical records after a specified period of time and after the health professional has made good faith efforts to contact the patient.
3. How the health professional shall timely respond to requests from patients for copies of their medical records or to access their medical records.

B. The protocol prescribed in subsection A of this section must comply with the relevant requirements of title 12, chapter 13, article 7.1 regarding medical records.

C. A health professional shall indicate compliance with the requirements of this section on the health professional's application for relicensure in a manner prescribed by the health professional's regulatory board.

D. A health professional who does not comply with this section commits an act of unprofessional conduct.

E. In addition to taking disciplinary action against a health professional who does not comply with this section, the health professional's regulatory board may take corrective action regarding the proper storage, transfer and access of the medical records of the health professional's patients. For the purposes of this subsection, corrective action does not include taking possession or management of the medical records.

F. For the purposes of this section, health professional does not include a veterinarian.

G. This section does not apply to a health professional who is employed by a health care institution as defined in section 36-401 that is responsible for the maintenance of the medical records.

The Board cannot provide legal advice or technical assistance to licensees seeking guidance for compliance with these requirements. Licensees should work with an attorney or other advisor to prepare the required written protocols.

Ethical Practice. It's the law!

The public in Arizona is fortunate to have a physical therapy law that clearly identifies ethical practice as the legal standard. A.R.S. §32-2041 Lawful practice requires: "A physical therapist shall adhere to the recognized standards of ethics of the physical therapy profession." Failing to adhere to the standards of ethics results in Grounds for disciplinary action under §32-2044(12). This standard is defined in administrative rule R4-24-101(31) as the Code of Ethics ("Code", 2000) and the Guide for Professional Conduct ("Guide", 2004) of the American Physical Therapy Association (APTA).

It doesn't get much clearer than this.

These referenced documents are the current versions of the Code and Guide adopted by APTA's House of Delegates. A code of ethics provides a public statement of the character and moral values of the profession. For physical therapists this arises from the fundamental obligation to place the patient's welfare first. And to act in a trustworthy and respectful fashion. And to be competent and practice lawfully. And to not exploit the patient or the system in any way. In fact, to act as champions of patient and public needs. And to promote excellence in practice, education and research. And to provide honest information to patients and society about physical therapy services and benefits. And to charge reasonably for appropriate services of stated value. And to protect the public and society at large from unethical, incompetent or illegal acts by anyone licensed under this law.

Hard to disagree.

So what does all this have to do with the real world? Every day physical therapists and physical therapist assistants make clinical decisions that have an ethical dimension relating to their patient's care in deciding when, how much, and by whom physical therapy interventions will be provided. Should the patient return for more care? Who can provide needed services most efficiently to make best use of healthcare dollars? Does the patient need to be evaluated by other practitioners? What is a fair charge for the services provided on that date of service? Does the patient fully understand and consent to the treatment interventions? Does the documentation allow 3rd parties to understand the nature of the physical therapy services provided and the appropriateness of the charges?

The Board's role in protecting the public is exercised through the investigation and adjudication of complaints. Every physical therapist and assistant is held to the ethical standards of the profession when the Board acts on complaints. In recent years the Board has imposed disciplinary action for ethical violations for:

- Failing to advise or document communication with patients about transferring care when the PT left his position;
- Failing to communicate with a patient or the referring physician when the patient self-discharged from physical therapy;
- Failing to reassess a patient when the PT approved continuing the planned treatment but did not personally have contact with the patient;
- Failing to adequately document sufficient rationale and objective detail to support the billings for services provided.

The Code and Guide offer a wealth of possibilities when dealing with the moral demands of clinical practice. Patients rely on our ethical sensitivity and moral fiber when we make the hard decisions about providing physical therapy services in the real world. There needs to be discussion whenever therapists, assistants and managers gather to prepare for these professional decisions.

Continuing Competence Audit Results

The Continuing Competence Audit Committee (CCAC) was extremely busy in November. The Board of Physical Therapy randomly selected for audit ten percent of the physical therapists who renewed their license on or before August 31, 2006. The CCAC reviewed 301 files and their recommendations were sent to the Board for review. The Board reviewed the findings during a regular session meeting on December 18, 2006 and took the following action:

- 77% of the physical therapists audited for continuing competence requirements for the 2004-2006 licensure period were found to be in compliance.

- 60 licensees submitted evidence of 20 or more contact hours (or 10 or more contact hours if only 10 hours were required) but they were found to be out of compliance since they lacked appropriate documentation to support the hours reported.

- 4 licensees failed to respond to the notice of audit.

- 3 licensees reported less than the required 20 contact hours.

- 2 licensees submitted documentation for courses outside of the 2004-2006 compliance period.

Documentation Task Force

The Board has appointed a task force to draft proposed language for rules concerning Arizona standards for physical therapy documentation.

UNLAWFUL PRACTICE

The following physical therapists/physical therapist assistants failed to renew their licenses/certificates by expiration on 8/31/06 and continued to practice/work following lapse. They were found in violation of statute (A.R.S. §32-2044(1), failing to timely renew (A.R.S. §32-2027) and unlawful practice (A.R.S. §32-2048(A)). Disciplinary action was imposed through consent dependent on the length of time of unlawful practice:
